

LITTLE BIT ...on most anything

They used to talk about four-hour city council meetings in the old city hall before Seaside "grew-up."

By that measure last Thursday night's was a return to infancy, and we may well be rocking the cradle after the new council is sworn and starts meeting.

Or, misusing another set of metaphors, politics is really ripe in Seaside. It's still juicy yet, but it won't take much to spoil it.

Last week's council meeting was one maneuver after another; either the ousted majority of Mayor Lou Haddad, Emit Schmidt or Bud Houser was trying to grab a little advantage before the new council is seated; or the soon-to-be-in-the-majority faction of Steve Ross and Oliver Murray, backed by several audience participants, was trying to hold things off.

The Ross-Murray faction took the lead at the council session.

Ross got a delay in his proposed human resources element which he wants to incorporate into the city's general plan, and Murray got a delay in Haddad's plan for adopting a sister-city in the Philippine Islands.

But then the Haddad-Schmidt-Houser wing, with an assist from Murray, punished Adeline DiLorenzo by attaching to her appeal of a variance condition a "personal undertaking," which amounts to making her liable personally for the landscaping of a double triplex, or sixplex, she wants to build. (Mrs. DiLorenzo has been at odds with the Haddad-Schmidt-Houser wing for years, and is considered one of the so-called Anti-Establishment leaders behind the election success of Mrs. Pearl Carey and Jerry McGrath.)

On the other hand Pat Patterson, as cantankerous as ever, got in his licks as Mr. Anti-Establishment, railing at Houser's call for a recount. Patterson wanted to know if Houser was charging misconduct; Houser, in an impassioned reply, said no. Later McGrath criticized his inclusion in the recount, somewhat less emotionally.

But despite the Anti's apparent advantage in the Thursday night scuffle, it has become clear that the majority didn't play its trump card at all.

That ace of spades apparently will have been played when readers receive their News-Sentinel this week. Tuesday night, after we go to press and before the paper is delivered, the council was to hold a special meeting. It was called to follow the official canvassing of the election of Mayor Lou Haddad and the propositions. With those validated, the council may go ahead and trade the Pit for the old city hall. They, of course, will be following the decision of the voters -- by 39 votes -- favoring Proposition M.

But the political maneuver involved here is the fact that while the old council will canvass for mayor and the propositions, they will not act on election of the councilmen because Houser is calling for the recount. That leaves the old council still in power and that means they'll go for the Pit trade pronto.

This prompts us to wonder about the need for a recount of the propositions, too. Houser lost by 37 votes; he thinks there could have been errors; he has a right to ask for the recount for no other reason than that. Proposition M carried by 39 votes; we believe that one of the businessmen to be forced to move out of the Pit could contend that there could have been errors -- especially since it was the last thing counted on the ballot. Most of ballot counters worked until the wee hours of Wednesday morning on those propositions, and one precinct didn't finish until 10 a.m. It would seem there would be more reason for error on Proposition M than on the Houser-Carey race, which was completed much earlier.

Of course someone would have to come up with the dollars to pay for the recount.

But then that kind of a move, if it is possible (we weren't able to find out after the special meeting was called and we had to go to press) would give the Anti's an advantage again. Such a recount would delay the canvassing of the propositions to coincide with the council recount, and a new council just might not go for the Pit trade.

Yessiree, there's nothing like being a kid and biting into a juicy, rotten apple.

$15,000 grant

Young Adults For Action has been named the recipient of a $15,800 grant from the Rosenberg Foundation of San Francisco, it was announced this week.

In a letter, Mrs. Ruth Chance, executive director of the foundation, said:

"The foundation board concluded that Young Adults For Action is giving valuable services of many kinds to the low-income youth of Seaside, as well as to the community . . . we assume that local support will continue . . ."

Founded nearly five years ago by Lee Toler, YAFA has a basic goal to prevent crime in the streets, according to Toler. He believes education and employment are musts for Seaside and that black people must seek means and ways to help themselves in these two areas. That was one of his reasons for founding YAFA.

Houser asks Council recount

The Seaside City Council was scheduled to canvass the election returns for mayor and the ballot propositions Tuesday night, and then hold a special meeting to discuss the trade of the Pit on Broadway for the old city hall. The special meeting was also called to discuss a sewer bond issue for the June 2 primary election ballot.

At the same time, a call for a recount of the council vote was being asked by incumbent Bud Houser, who trailed Mrs. Pearl Carey by 37 votes, 1482-1445.

The canvassing will make official Mayor Lou Haddad's 1736-1338 victory over Councilman Steve Ross, and his swearing-in will be held afterward. The canvass will also make official a two-year term for mayor, favored by a 1533-887 vote margin, and a favorable 1580-692 vote for the council to sell the old city hall.

But the controversial issue was to be the exchange of the old city hall for the Pit, which gained only a 39-vote victory, 1169-1130.

Since the recount was to be called, Houser and Emil Schmidt, also defeated (Jerry McGrath led the council race), still retain their offices. They and Haddad voted to make the trade earlier this year. But Oliver Murray and Steve Ross opposed the move at that time, and City Atty. Saul Weingarten ruled that it would take a 4-1 vote of the council to sell city land.

For that reason the issues were placed on the ballot. Armed with a favorable vote of the people, the current council may go ahead and make the trade.

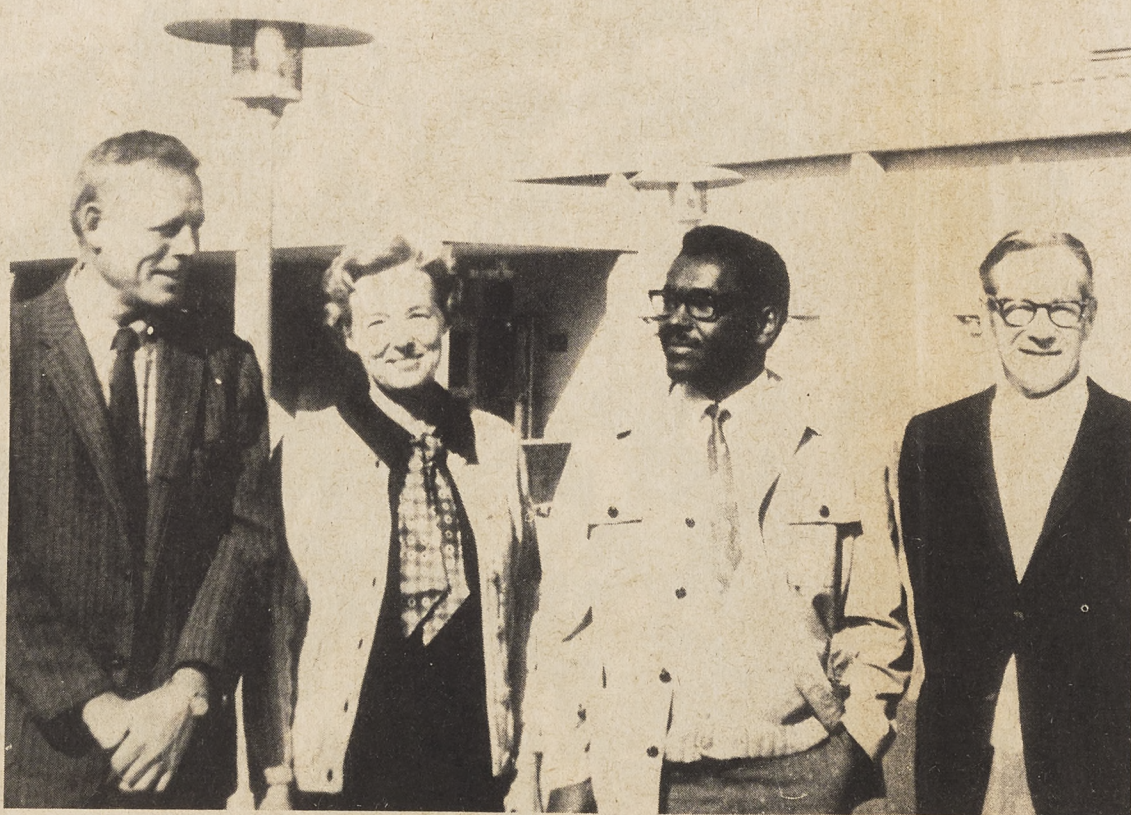

The recount probably won't start until next Monday, April 27, according to Fran Carpino, assistant city clerk. She indicated it may take more than one day since recounters are prohibited by law from working more than 6 hours in a day. She said it is possible that the canvassing of the recount totals could be Thursday, April 30, and the elected councilmen could be sworn then.

Bill Cosby to appear for YAFA

Bill Cosby, one of the country's most well-known comedians and television actors, will appear on the Peninsula under the sponsorship of the Young Adults For Action June 6.

Jimmy Roy, YAFA administrator, said Cosby would appear to "do his thing" at 4 p.m. at the Monterey Peninsula College gym. Tickets at $5 went on sale Monday at the YAFA headquarters at 1189 Broadway in Seaside.

Roy emphasized that Cosby's appearance in the afternoon would not be a part of the YAFA Soul Festival to be held that night at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. Tickets at $3.50 for that event are also on sale at YAFA headquarters, Battle's Furniture and John Bean Realty in Seaside.

Stone blasting G-K reports

comment

Griffenhagen - Kroeger, the management consulting firm that just completed a study of how well the city runs, handled it delicately:

"... we suggest that the design of the city hall building must have been based upon the concept of 'function follows form' rather than the more practical of 'form following function.'"

In plainer words, the firm was saying that Edward Durrell Stone may have made an architectural masterpiece but it certainly doesn't handle the business of running a city efficiently.

The report goes on: "The present lay-out of the main floor undoubtedly met the needs of the city when the building was first occupied. We suggest, however, that this is no longer true."

Again the politeness of G-K is apparent. The building was first occupied in the fall of 1966, less than four years ago.

The G-K assessment of city is not lonesome. City Manager Milt Farrell, while agreeing to the beauty of the building -- as does G-K, has been less than complimentary about the lay-out ever since he took the job last year.

Specifically, G-K says there just isn't enough flexibility to be gained by rearranging offices in the building. As further evidence, G-K notes that the "present arrangement of public counters requires what we consider to be an unduly high amount of clerical coverage." In laymen's terms that means too many clerks have to wait on the public -- i.e. city manager's office, finance department, planning department, building department and public works department.

If these changes are made, it would cut the city hall art gallery in half, and that should be ample warning for the G-K people and Farrell to get braced for the people and Farrell to get braced for a sputtering-mad C.Y. Lee and his Art Commission.

(In coming weeks, the News-Sentinel will comment on other sections of the G-K study . . . a wide-ranging reorganization already under way in the public works department . . . some major physical and operational changes including the search for a new chief in the fire department . . . organizational changes in police and general administration.)

Final vote favors Pit trade

School, however had only a three-vote margin.

The only relatively close measure was whether voters approved the sex education and family life program of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District. Yes voters had a 1295-853 margin. That measure had the lowest vote total with only 2153 out of 3229 cast. Other measures ranged to a high vote of 2490 on the 18-year-old voting measure.

Ross urges giant service center

Anti-Poverty Council director Steve Ross Monday announced plans for a coordinated community service center that would contain some 30,000 square feet under one roof and provide space for nearly 20 agencies to serve the poor.

Ross said a planning group had based its design on the vacant Sir Discount department store building at Ord Grove and Fremont in Seaside, but indicated he didn't know if that building were available.

Ross, also a city councilman, said he and his group, called Operation Move-Up, had been working on the plan for about two years. He said he announced it now because he considered the possibility of favorable supporting action by the new city council better than with the previous council.

Ross indicated that the Department of Housing and Urban Development said federal funds might be available for such a project.

Ross noted that most of the social services for the poor are scattered throughout the Peninsula. He said a central location would naturally serve them better.

He said officials from all three public school districts on the Peninsula, Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey, were involved in the planning group.

Some of the major areas in the center would be set aside for youth, child care, vocational training, meetings, welfare, emergency food bank, family services, legal, medical and dental.

BOB WOOD REPORTS

A Weekly Column By The 34th District Assemblyman

Although the Legislature has been in session since January 4, I didn't really get my official baptism under fire until the other day on the Assembly floor. Up until last Wednesday, I had introduced several resolutions along with a few minor bills, and have co-authored several name bills, actually drawn up by other Assemblymen, but I had never really spoken on the floor in my own behalf on any bill of any real importance; in other words a bill of my own that could create some discussion and controversy on the floor. However, last Wednesday it was my turn to present my bill AB 107 requiring that re-use or reclamation of water be one of the uses to be considered by the State Water Quality Resources

Board in acting upon applications to appropriate water. After receiving permission from the Speaker to proceed, I presented my reasons why I thought there was a need for such a bill. I concluded my testimony and sat down awaiting the verdict of my fellow Legislators. There is a large board in the front of the Assembly hall and each Assemblyman's name is listed with a green and red light behind each name. Each desk is equipped with a small switch. If a Legislator approves of a measure he turns the switch to the yes side and a green light shows up by his name. If he desires a no vote, or disapproves of the measure, he flips the no switch and a red light appears on the huge board behind his name. I didn't anticipate much trouble and hoped for a majority of green lights which would show approval. I only needed 41 green or yes votes. However, upon concluding my testimony, and when the Speaker called for the vote, almost 60 % of the lights turned up red, and I was flabbergasted. I hadn't anticipated this much trouble. One fellow Legislator said later that I turned red from the back of my neck over the top of my head and down to a point below my Adam's apple. I momentarily lost my composure and before I could regain it Assemblyman Jack Fenton, a Democrat from Whittier who sits in the desk in front of me had leaned backward and flicked my own switch from a yes vote (or green light) to a no vote, or a red light, and he did this without me noticing what he was up to. However, just before the vote closed every man on the floor Republican and Democrat alike, had switched to a yes or a green vote for approval of my bill. And when I looked up at the Board the only red light showing in opposition to the bill was a red light opposite my own name, and here I was, the author of the bill. I was greatly relieved to receive this unanimous support and then suddenly it dawned upon me that there really was no opposition all along, it was really just the Legislature's way of breaking in a Freshman Assemblyman. As I happily left the Assembly floor that day a senior Legislator, and a member of the Assembly for over 15 years, came along side and said, "Bob you have now been officially baptised, you are now one of us. However, don't expect this unanimous approval on all your future bills. (P.S. I'm sure I won't!)"

Enuf for now...

National school bus safety week April 20-25

Need for continued highway safety, with particular attention to school buses, is being highlighted by the second annual National School Bus Safety Week, which coincides with California's 51st Public Schools Week.

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District transportation department will participate in the safety event by operating all buses with headlights lighted to remind other motorists of the importance of highway safety. George F. Goodwin, a driver and mechanic was appointed by Doyle Johnson, director of transportation, as MPUSD chairman of National School Bus Safety Week. Goodwin, on behalf of MPUSD, and also representing CASTO (California Association of School Transportation Officials) has written the mayors and police chiefs of Monterey, Seaside, Del Rey Oaks, and Sand City, the Provost Marshal at Fort Ord, the Chief of Security Police at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, the Monterey County Sheriff's office, and the California Highway Patrol office, Salinas, asking for support of the national observance. Goodwin encourages emphasis of section 22454 of the California Vehicle Code regarding red lights on a school bus. From the California Drivers' Handbook he quoted, "When you come to a school bus stopped on EITHER SIDE of the roadway with a flashing red light, you must stop. Children will be crossing the roadway to or from the school bus. Remain stopped as long as the red light is flashing. You need not stop if the bus is on the other side of a DIVIDED ROADWAY. You don't have to remain stopped when the bus has stopped at a corner controlled by a traffic light or officer." Nine basic rules for students who ride school buses are quoted,

- (1) Leave home early enough to arrive at your bus stop on time.
 - (2) Wait for your bus in a safe place - well off the roadway.
 - (3) Enter your bus in an orderly manner, and taken your seat.
 - (4) Follow the instructions of your school bus driver.
 - (5) Remain in your seat while your bus is in motion.
 - (6) Help keep your bus clean.
 - (7) Remain quiet.
 - (8) Be courteous to your school bus driver, and to fellow passengers.
 - (9) Be alert for traffic when leaving the bus.
- During 1968 - 69 MPUSD operated 32 school buses which traveled a total of 420,044 miles and transported an average of 3225 students to and from school daily. The fleet operation has been curtailed in the present financial crisis caused by unexpected loss of Public Law 874 federal grant funds. Seven buses are on stand-by use because of cutback in transportation service. Jobs were discontinued for a number of part-time student bus drivers as an immediate economy.

China film Friday

Explorama, the travel-adventure film series, is presenting a special program which is not part of their regular series. "China", an award winning 2-hour color documentary film, will be narrated in person by its producer and photographer, Danish author and explorer Jens Bjerre. The film will be shown at *15 p.m. Friday, April 24, at the Sunset Auditorium in Carmel. Bjerre has recently returned from his third visit to the Communist mainland. In his uncensored film, Bjerre reveals as much as possible about the Communist mainland and its 730 million people. Highlights include a trip from Moscow on the Great Siberian Railway across Mongolia and the Gobi Desert to China. The Chinese people, as shown in the country, and in the major cities of Peking, Hanchow, Shanghai and Soochow. Reserved seat tickets at $3.50 and $3.00 are available in advance at Julia Marlowe's Knit Shop, Mission & 6th Ave. (May Court) in Carmel. They are also available at Macy's.

Census taker will come, yet!

Howard Weile, district manager, reports that the 1970 census of population and housing is nearing completion in the area, that in about another week the census takers should have visited every residence on their lists. Census takers began visiting households on April 1 and have been working continuously to cover their territories. Weile asks that householders hold their questionnaires, which were delivered prior to April 1, and have them filled out, ready for the census taker to pick up. This will save time for both the householder and the census taker and speed up the completion of the census. For every fifth household, the census taker will have a longer questionnaire which she will fill out by interviewing a member of the household. The district manager asks householders to welcome these census takers when they call and to give them full cooperation in getting the required census information. Most of the census takers are women. Each wears a red, white, and blue identification badge which is her official credential. It bears her signature and certifies that she is authorized to perform the duties of a Census Enumerator, and has sworn to keep confidential all census information given her.

14-day movie run to benefit film festival

As a benefit for the Third Annual Monterey Independent Film-Makers Festival to be staged at Monterey Peninsula College in the summer, fourteen international feature-length films will be shown for the first time locally at Carmel's Village Theatre from Wednesday, April 29, through Tuesday, May 12.

According to Chase Weaver, festival coordinator, the film series is the first of its kind in this area. "Fourteen films in fourteen days - any steady moviegoer should find plenty to choose from," Weaver said. "There are films from Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Italy, France, England and the United States. We tried to find some of the best films - from as many different countries as possible - that had not had a public showing on the Peninsula before."

Proceeds from the series will go toward putting on and providing prize money for the August festival an event which has for the past two years gained a national reputation among students and other independent, experimental film-makers.

The films announced for the series are: "The Fifth Horseman is Fear" (Czechoslovakia), April 29; "The Birds, the Bees and the Italians" (Italy/France), April 30; "Daisies" (Czechoslovakia), May 1; "Capricious Summer" (Czechoslovakia), May 2; "The Man With the Balloons" (Italy), May 3; "Decline and Fall of a Birdwatcher" (England), May 4; "Father" (Hungary), May 5; "The Birthday Party" (England), May 6; "Negatives" (England), May 7; "Naked Among the Wolves" (Poland), May 8; "Stolen Kisses" (France), May 9; "La Chamade" (France), May 10; "Accident" (England), May 11; and "Bye, Bye Braverman" (USA), May 12.

Such directors as Francois Truffaut, Joseph Losey and Sidney Lumet and such writers as Harold Pinter are represented in the series.

A brochure containing information about each film, as well as price information, is available at the theatre and MPC's community services office. Series tickets may be purchased at Carmel's Village Theatre after 7 p.m. daily.

Consumer Power By YVONNE EARNST

Is it necessary to participate in form exchanges to be a "refunder?"

No, it certainly isn't a basic requirement. For the first three years I "refunded," the only forms I ever used were the few I found in local stores. My income from refunding was enough to keep me happy all that time.

But, for the last year, I have experimented with form exchanges, and have found that my refund income has raised accordingly. One can send for 80% or more of all refund offers without a special form. (It seemed to be about 90% earlier this year.)

For up to 20% of announced refund offers, the companies now require special mail-in forms. Even for the offers which do not require forms, however, it is often good insurance against a sponsor changing policy in the middle of a refund campaign.

Whenever I am writing to a company for any reason, I take the opportunity to plead for "open" refund campaigns. When a form is designated as "required," it seems to me to encourage a "black market" situation, with the simple slip of paper taking on an inflated value. Contrary to the sponsors' belief that this system is fair and equitable for all their customers, it is, instead, unfair and inequitable. Those "in the know" will get the refund forms, while "the average American housewife," if she exists, never sees a form.

So, until the sponsors come around to this point of view, all we can try to do is put our readers "in the know."

Now, how do you get the most from a form exchange? First of all, you set a limit on the number of exchanges per month that you send. Each one will cost you postage both ways plus handling fee, and you don't want to make this a major investment.

Next you list the forms you are interested in obtaining rather than taking "pot-luck." Turn to each page of your notebook, in alphabetical order, run your finger down the "form" column, and each time you find an "R" in that column (which you put their earlier when reading your refund bulletin) put that on your request list. Put the expiration date, product or campaign name and amount of refund. (12/31/70 - Birds-Eye 5 vegetable combination -- $1).

If you use carbon paper, you can make several copies of your request list, saving time in the future by only making additions to it.

Put your name and address at the top of the list, and instructions to return the list with the forms.

It is important to specify exactly what forms you want because the same company may be running several different campaigns at the same time, some requiring forms, and some not. You might add a notation that you would also be happy to receive any new forms for campaigns announced since the last bulletins were published.

It is also a good idea to add a short list at the bottom of the page of categories of products in which you are not interested, or all the forms you request will not be sent and other forms will be substituted as available. If you don't want pet food, frozen convenience foods, or detergent refund forms, specify that clearly. Make your list legible and neat. Don't clutter it with questions the person operating the exchange will probably not have time to answer.

If you are sending forms to trade (which I explained last week was not the best way to start) be sure to have your letter weighed. Most exchanges refuse to accept postage-due mail, which is certainly reasonable. Always include a long self-addressed stamped envelope with adequate postage for the numbers of forms you expect to be sent to you. Usually put one 6¢ stamp on the self-addressed envelope, and paper-clip two more to the request list, to be used if needed.

And remember to include the handling charge, if one is required. Fold the coin inside a sheet of paper, so that it is not obvious that it is inside the envelope.

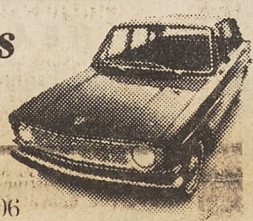

Next week, you will find more answers here to your questions on refunding.

LETTERS

Editor:

Plaudits to Messrs. Ed Battles and Henry Burrey for putting the good of the Seaside community ahead of their personal political ambitions. Their valiant action in withdrawing from the Seaside City elections was partly responsible for the election of Mrs. Pearl Carey to the Seaside City Council.

For the first time in Seaside City history, the voters had an opportunity to unite behind one black candidate. This is an example of what a united people can do. The citizenry of Seaside - black, white, yellow, businessmen, ministers, housewives, laborers, etc. all united for a common goal. May this oneness continue for the betterment of Seaside. To the old and new members of the Council Seaside needs your help; may the City prosper under your guidance.

Sherman W. Smith
Seaside

Editor:

Months ago you may have read my OPEN LETTER to you and the public in regard to the Bicentennial activities planned for our area, with the theme of CAL 200, focusing on "The City of Things to Come", from our local papers.

Now that the monthly arts and crafts exhibits are on display in Seaside City Hall, honoring the Bicentennial year, the Bicentennial lecture by Ambassador Osuna and Prof. Bibler has been given, the following projects will need your cooperation, participation, backing and support, especially financially:

1. Bicentennial Art Poster Contest, ending April 17, 1970, for secondary school students in Monterey County. About $100.00 is needed to advertise and for prizes.

2. YOUTH DAY in MAY, giving the young people a chance to really celebrate the Cal Bicentennial on Sat. May 9, 1970, to be held at Seaside High School, featuring games, sports, swimming & recreation, arts, music, dances, etc. -- So the youth of today can learn about California heritage and culture of yester-years and show forth what they can and should do tomorrow. -- About $300.00 is needed for a whole day's festival for this project.

3. ART FAIR at Olympia Plaza or somewhere in Seaside or Ft. Ord, with cooperation of local merchants giving merchandise certificates to winners of arts and crafts contests -- a one-day affair on Saturday, sometime in June after school is out to help boost business for local businessmen. About $300 is needed to promote, advertise, and to attract tourists to attend this Art Fair -- money MUST come from participating or interested merchants.

4. 4th July Bicentennial PARADE and FEASTING after the parade at GATEWAY AUTO Center July 5, 1970 -- About $200 is needed for the program after the parade is over, for advertising and promotion, and for prizes to be awarded to winning performers of the arts -- like the best dancer, dancing group, music bands, vocalist, etc.

5. Others like the 4th Annual Art Competitive Show in November, Bicentennial FASHION SHOW with international costumes, SPECIAL CHRISTMAS INTERNATIONAL RELIGIOUS ART SHOW in December, 1970, field trips by chartered buses to SF CHINATOWN, OAKLAND MUSEUM, SACRAMENTO or other historical places, etc. -- ALL these need money, perhaps a total of $1000.00 or more.

Thus, you see, here's a budget of at least $2000.00 in order to accomplish what we've planned for the remainder of this Bicentennial year. We hate to beg, but we must have some fund in the Bicentennial Treasury to carry out our mission. Please DONATE generously of whatever amount you can afford and write a check to me or Ralph Schlink, our treasurer, as soon as possible, so that we can get these programs under way. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Charles Y. Lee, Chairman

Return speaker

GRANT C. BUTLER, whose last lecture at Monterey Peninsula College was so enthusiastically received that requests were made to "bring him back" will speak Thursday, April 30, at 8 p.m. in the MPC Theater. His topic this time, "Russia Today." The lecture is open to the public without charge, but prospective audience members are asked to pick up free tickets from the college's community services office, open afternoons in the administration building on campus, or request them by mail. On his most recent trip, he visited Moscow, Kiev, Sochi and Leningrad while in the Soviet Union and interviewed top-ranking diplomats and spoke with youth leaders in seven countries.

134 pints of blood given

Monterey Peninsula College students, faculty and staff, plus many members of the community, contributed 134 pints in a highly successful blood drive staged by the American Red Cross at MPC Thursday.

The drive was sponsored by Phi Sigma Chi, a campus service club, on behalf of Serina Miller, a January 1970 MPC graduate who is now at the City of Hope Hospital in Duarte; Dave Allen of Pacific Grove, MPC student and public information office photographer who has just been released from a local hospital; and Brett and Mark Leach, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Leach of Monterey. (Dr. Leach is a political science instructor at the college.)

Members of Phi Sigma Chi, led by John Bohannon, president assisted Red Cross volunteers and professionals in the drive by setting up and taking down equipment, signing up some 75 student volunteers and publicizing the event.

Closed gates

Starting this week all except four main gates to Ft. Ord will be closed from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m., including the Broadway and San Pablo gates in Seaside.

Gates at Gilling Road, 2nd Street (the main gate), 10th Street and Imjin Road (opposite Fritz-see Field) will continue to remain open on a 24-hour basis.

Military authorities announced that the limitation of 24-hour access to Ft. Ord is being conducted to improve night-time traffic control.

1940 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return
Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q I'm moving in a few weeks and my refund hasn't come. What should I do if it doesn't come before I move?

A) Give your postmaster your new address so the refund can be forwarded to you. This will assure your refund gets to you promptly.

Thousands of refund checks are held up each year because taxpayers have moved without leaving forwarding addresses. When a check has been returned to IRS by the Post Office, it is held until the taxpayer either writes IRS or files another return giving his new address. The refund is then sent to the taxpayer or applied to any tax he may then owe.

Q If I buy a new tractor for my farm, can I still take the investment credit on it?

A) No, the investment credit provision was generally repealed by the Tax Reform Act of 1969. It does not apply to most equipment acquired after April 18, 1969.

Q Is there any change in the Social Security tax rate on household employees?

A) The rate is still 4.8 percent for the employee and 4.8 percent for the employer making a combined rate of 9.6 percent. Anyone who paid a household employee $50 or more in total cash wages during January, February and March should pay 9.6 percent of the total wages to IRS using Form 942, Employee's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees. The deadline for paying these taxes is April 30.

Q I was 65 last month. Isn't my boss supposed to stop taking Social Security out of my pay?

A) No, employers are required to withhold Social Security taxes on the first $7,800 in wages paid each employee. The age of the employee does not change this requirement.

Q Should I keep the records I used to make out my 1969 tax return?

A) Yes, you should keep these records and other information used to prepare your return. If your return is audited, these records will help substantiate items on your tax return.

Q I sent in my tax return without a W-2 from a part-time job. Should I send it in now?

A) If you included the income and amount of tax withheld from the Form W-2 on the income tax return you filed, send the W-2 to the IRS for association with your return.

However, if you did not include the wage and tax amounts from the W-2 on your return, then you should file Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. Fill out this form completely according to the instructions and send it with the W-2 to the Internal Revenue Service Center serving your district. Copies of Form 1040X and instructions are available at local IRS offices.

Q I just put in a retirement plan for myself and the three people I employ in my business. If I take on some summer help, do I have to put them in the retirement plan too?

A) No, part-time and summer employees usually do not have to be included in a self-employed retirement plan.

Additional details on these plans may be found in IRS Publication 560, Retirement Plans for Self-Employed Individuals. Send a post card to your local IRS office for a free copy.

Q I started working last year when my husband was sent to Vietnam by the Army. What do I do about our tax return?

A) You have several choices. You may file a separate return based on just your earnings and then when he comes back, amend it to a joint return for the same period. This will give you the advantage of the lower rates for joint returns. You can also postpone filing until your husband leaves Vietnam and file a joint return then.

Another possibility is for you to file a joint return now indicating in the space provided for his signature that he is "serving in a combat zone." When reporting his income, remember that pay received each month while in combat zone by enlisted men and warrant officers is not taxable. Commissioned officers can exclude the first $500 each month.

For more information, contact your local IRS office. They will be glad to help you.

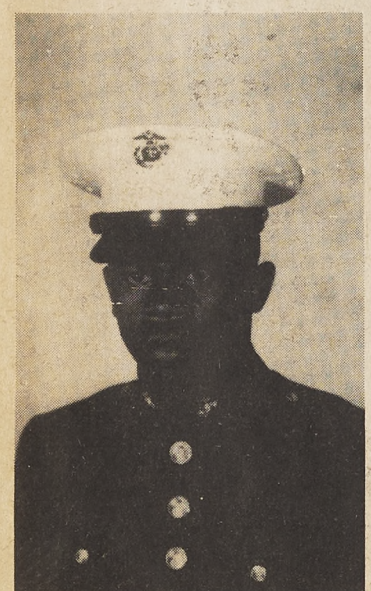

Q If I pay someone to prepare my return, isn't he responsible for it being accurate?

A) No, you the taxpayer are responsible for the accuracy of income and expenses reported on your return. For this reason, it is advisable to check all the entries on the form before you send it in. Make sure, too, that the form you file has the label with your name, address and Social Security number attached.

Q Last year I sold some of the shares I received in stock split. What do I use as my cost basis?

A) Divide the total number of your shares in this company's stock into the original purchase price to obtain the average cost of the shares you are selling. Report this on Schedule D and attach it to your Form 1040.

THE PHONE BOOTH

Whenever we talk, we vibrate the air between us and the person we're talking to. The mouthpiece of your telephone changes the air vibrations into electrical impulses which travel to the other telephone receiver. There the electrical waves are converted back into sound waves which are uniquely your own. Unseen, however, in this process are the billions of miles of wire and millions of switches which could be used to direct your vibrations to the single phone, of the more than 200 million telephones in the world, that you selected. With millions of calls a day, it takes a lot of good switching to make sure you get good vibrations.

Be sure and join us on radio for the San Francisco Giants' exciting baseball games. Pacific Telephone is one of the sponsors who'll be keeping you up on the action throughout the season. Sportscares Russ Hodges, Lon Simmons and Bill Thompson will be giving you handy tips on the use of your telephone.

City election analyzed

Precinct by precinct analysis of last week's city elections shows essentially the same voting patterns as two years ago, four years ago, six...

The familiar U-shaped pattern formed by Precincts B & A in Ord Terrace following south across H and lower F west of Fremont and proceeding up, or east, into the Kimball area in Precinct D all voted for Bud Houser, for example, in his race with Pearl Carey. Houser won A, B, D & H with 939 votes to Mrs. Carey's 752.

Mrs. Carey reversed things in the pocket of the U pattern and more than cancelled Houser's margin in the U. Precincts C, E, F & G voted for Mrs. Carey 982 to only 492 for Houser.

When it was all added up, Mrs. Carey had her 37-vote lead, 1482 to 1445 for Houser, which was markedly different from their race four years ago in 1966.

That year, Houser and Emil

Schmidt were running against Mrs. Carey and four others, including another well-known black in the community, Sherman Smith. But Kang Liang and Sam Thornburg were in the race, too.

The numbers split up the vote in 1966 so that Houser had 1400 out of 3165 votes cast for a percentage of 44 and Schmidt had 1078 for 33 per cent. Mrs. Carey was third with 960 votes and Smith fourth with 931.

That splitting changed this year, when Ed Battle and Henry Burney, both blacks, withdrew from the race.

This year Houser got 45 more votes, 1445, but his percentage of the total dipped to 42 per cent. Schmidt picked up 126 more votes and his percentage jumped to 36. But it wasn't enough, because Mrs. Carey bested her 1966 total by more than 500 votes. Jerry McGrath led the ticket with 49 per cent of the vote.

The mayor's race showed Lou Haddad taking six of the eight precincts in Seaside, and gaining nearly half, 800, of his total vote of 1736 in two precincts, B & D, in the extreme north and south of the city. Ross won only two precincts, C & D, and had only 635 in those two.

Comparing Ross's performance with two years ago when he had a six-man council race with 49.7 per cent of the vote, the councilman slipped in several precincts. In his strong area, C & G, he had 68 and 70 per cent two years ago; this year he managed 66 and 69. But his greatest slide in percentage was in Precinct F at the Youth Center, where he led the vote with nearly 61 per cent in 1968 and was beaten by Haddad 49 per cent to 42 this year. Healsowon B at Cabrillo in 1968 but lost it to Haddad.

The turnout this year was clearly the largest in more than 10 years, and so was the total vote of 3228. In 1966, 3165 voted when Haddad was first elected mayor, and the percentage turnout was 51 per cent. More voters were registered in 1966, 6229, than this year, 5627.

Who cares? Mel Vercoe

Jerry Rubin never answered my question, at least not directly. His performance at the MPC gymnasium Friday was colorful — complete with a shirt that should be standard equipment for anyone likely to be stranded on the ocean with an innertube for a boat.

And it was a performance — far more than just a speech — in which he made it clear that he was in favor of immediate or sooner violent overthrow of everything now existing in favor of he-didn't-know-what.

As a public speaker he was a failure. His poorly articulated mouthings were yelled into a microphone held too close, but he made good use of his best qualities — completely irrational statements and uninhibited use of proudly spouted four-letter bedroom and barnyard words.

And this seemed to be what roughly three-fourths of the spectators had come to hear, leaving a fourth of us there just out of curiosity.

The most interesting part of the program was not Mr. Rubin's crude performance, but rather the reactions of the onlookers.

One young man on a bleacher seat was so hopeful that something violent might happen and that he would be part of it that he had in readiness a new gas mask, which might or might not have fitted him with a needed haircut.

Another young man stayed near the stage so he could model a Fidel Castro suit that still had the shipping wrinkles in it.

These two, and the bulk of the other young people in the audience probably would have voted for Mr. Rubin for President if he had been running for the job and they had been old enough to vote.

But the adults, even those who thought themselves liberals and smiled and clapped politely at the spectacle, were gradually turned off as Mr. Rubin departed from popular political hunting grounds and attacked more personal values. The cheers grew fainter as he made disparaging remarks about the Catholic church and the Pop's ring, and fainter yet when he said we didn't need mothers, but we did need people who would engage mothers in sexual intercourse. This was not the way he expressed it, so if Junior came home from the MPC gym show Friday night with some new choice words, don't give Junior credit for thinking them up all by himself.

There was a frightening part of the whole thing, too, a part that can't be forgotten as easily as Mr. Rubin or his words.

The fact that such a high percentage of our youth are so disenchanted and alienated and generally disgusted with our society that they are willing to look to a man like Jerry Rubin for guidance — this simply cannot be dismissed as some kind of a passing fad.

These are the people who are going to inherit America, the ones who are going to vote and have children and possibly keep America intact for future generations. Their reactions to Mr. Rubin's proposals were far more frightening than interesting, and far overshadow even Mr. Rubin's motives, which are still slightly obscure.

The unanswered question I submitted to Mr. Rubin was, "Are you really concerned with ending the Vietnam war, or are you primarily interested in destroying America by continuing the war by discrediting the protest movement with your tactics?"

What a pity that with all of America's great resources we can't furnish our youth an acceptable hero to look up to who is not openly committed to destruction of everything in sight just for the sake of destruction.
